BRIDGE AND DOCKS BEFORE ALDERMEN TOMORROW NIGHT

Practically All Council Committees to Gather at City Hall to Discuss Referred Business

OPPOSITION TO HIGH SCHOOL

North Side Members Say They Will Vote for the Bridge for Good of City at Large

When the new council committee on ordinances holds its initial meeting at the city hall tomorrow night the proposed free bridge ordinance will be one of the important matters for discussion. In addition to this matter the ordinance committee will discuss the proposed river terminals plan and also the contemplated building of a high school on the north side.

Friends of the free bridge who have taken polls of the councilmen declared today that much of the opposition to the proposed bridge ordinance, coming from certain sections of the city, has been withdrawn and that the ordinance will be reported unanimously to the council for passage.

"We cannot hold our own factional wishes against the wishes of the city at large because we are aldermen for the whole city and not for small sections of it," said one North side alderman who had been fighting the bridge before election. "The North side will give in on any matter which is for the benefit of the city at large."

Opposition to High School. Some opposition has developed regarding the advisability of building the North side high school this year because of the lack of available funds and objection on the part of many of the aldermen to increase the city's bonded indebtedness. There will likely be a lively debate on the high school matter in the committee.

The committee on fire will meet tomorrow night to purchase an automobile for the chief of the fire department. Chief Bradfield has made a recommendation as to which car he likes best in the $1,000 class, but the committee may be asked to increase this appropriation.

ASQUITH FAVORS MINERS

MANCHESTER, England, May 6.—Premier Asquith has decided in favor of the demand of the miners for an increase of pay better than ten per cent. Unless the amount can mutually be agreed on within a week he will refer the question to an umpire.

THE PHILHARMONIC CLOSES ITS SEASON

A concert at the La Crosse Theater tonight will set a period to the season's activities of the Philharmonic orchestra. It brings renewed interest to the work of this organization, which has in the short space of its existence progressed to a degree of success and stability which is not paralleled in the history of the city.

Tonight's concert will be representative, a splendid opportunity to become acquainted with the aims and work of the musical community in La Crosse. The program which has been prepared recommends itself to discriminating appreciation.

To remind you of the event is no doubt unnecessary. Probably you have already arranged to attend. If you have not, recall the success of the Philharmonic's two appearances in the past. On form, tonight's concert is worth a bet.

BRITISH ADMIT LOSING GROUND IN BELGIUM TO ADVANCING GERMANS

FOOTHOLD ON HILL SIXTY IS WON BY KAISER'S TROOPS

Fierce Battle in Progress with Both Sides Losing Very Heavily

LONDON, May 6.—Aided by the smashing fire of their big guns which have battered the British entanglements to pieces, the Germans are slowly advancing in Belgium. Late advice from the front say that the British have ceded certain of their outer line of trenches "to straighten out their line," and it is declared that the new positions are so strong that the German forward movement is certain to be stayed. The losses on both sides are enormous although the German losses far outnumber those of the allies.

Attack Hill Sixty. The Germans continue their use of poisonous gases, taking advantage of the strong winds that are blowing directly from their trenches across the British line. They are bringing up enormous forces in effort to retake Hill Sixty south of Ypres, but so far have succeeded only in maintaining a foothold on its easterly approaches.

While the Germans continue their main attacks on the British positions in an effort to take Ypres, the French and Belgian forces are violently attacking their right wing and have made gains between Pyspagaale and Hot Saste. If these can be continued they will aid materially in lifting the pressure on the British position.

The new French heavy artillery is being used along this line with great effect.

Along the line in France in the Champagne region and between the Meuse and the Moselle heavy artillery exchanges were reported today. A night attack on the French positions at Calonne has failed.

Admit Gain at Hill Sixty

PARIS, May 6.—Fighting of the most desperate character continues along the battle line in the north, with both sides losing heavily. It is admitted that the Germans have been able to make a substantial gain in the eastern side of Hill Sixty, south of Ypres, but the French war office says that the British were reinforced there and have already regained a part of the trenches they lost.

The Germans have attacked in force the French positions in the vicinity to Steenstraete, but were driven back with heavy casualties. The fighting from this point to Hill Sixty is bitterly contested.

In the Allied Woods the French are again on the offensive. The latest reports to the war office admit that the Germans scored a success there, taking part of the front line of trenches but the French managed to regain some of the lost ground.

The Germans have succeeded in recouping a summit of a spur east of Sillakar-Wasen but elsewhere the French are declared to be maintaining their gains in the direction of Fecht.

FACULTY HONORS PUPILS WHO EXCEL IN SCHOLARSHIP

Miss Esther Wiggert, who took first honors in her class at the high school and Donald Valier, also the recipient of scholarship honors, will be the speakers who will represent the high school faculty at the Commencement exercises at the theater June 18.

Together with the other four speakers recently elected by the two graduating classes these will be the only speakers on the program other than President Lueking of the board of education and Superintendent Benzel.

The high school faculty elected the two representatives unanimously at a special meeting last night.

War Bulletins

DOVER, England, May 6.—Heavy gun fire has been heard all day today in the direction of Dunkirk. There has been no official explanation and rumors are in circulation that the Germans are again bombarding the northern French coast city. There is no confirmation of this, however.

ROME, May 6.—The king has ordered a suspension of all furloughs in the army.

ROME, May 6.—It was announced today that Italy and Serbia have reached an agreement regarding an outlet for Serbia on the Adriatic.

BISHOP WEBB HERE SAYS CHURCH SEES NO NEUTRALITY

Halfway Step Between the Good and Evil Is Impossible Declares Milwaukee Prelate

PROCESSIONAL CROSS CARRIED

Impressive Services by the Visitor Conclude with Reception at Christ Church

"One cannot be neutral, either in the present war or in the war between Christians and evil," said Rt. Rev. W. W. Webb, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Milwaukee in his sermon last night at Christ Episcopal church.

His sermon, entitled, "There is no Discharge in That War," was a parallel discussion of the present European war and the fight of Christianity against the forces of evil. "One must be either on one side or the other," Bishop Webb declared.

Assisting in the services, besides Rev. William Everett Johnson, pastor of the church, were Rev. Henry A. Link of Kilbourn and Rev. J. W. Smith of Tomah.

The new processional cross, a gift of the church as a memorial to the late Prof. Nelson Smith Donaldson, was used for the first time last night. The cross was carried by Everett Johnson, assisted by Allen Schilling, Robert Miner, Albert Hirschheimer, Charles McDonald and Vernon Noble. Solemn Te Deum was sung by the full vested choir.

Following the sermon, Bishop Webb and the visiting pastors were guests at a reception held in the Guild hall. Mrs. J. W. Losey and Mrs. L. E. Easton received.

SENATE PUTS CHECK ON SALOON INCREASE

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—The senate this morning amended the Stevens bill permitting hotels to secure saloon licenses, notwithstanding the provisions of the Baker law, so that it will be necessary to secure the surrender of an existing license at another location before a license is granted. The increase of the number of saloons in any place is thereby prohibited. The vote on the amendment stood 16 to 13, and the outcome is looked upon as foreshadowing the defeat of the Stember bill, amending the Baker law, when it comes to a vote in the senate.

ELECTRIC HOLDINGS LARGE

CHICAGO, May 6.—The Commonwealth-Edison company has personal holdings in Illinois to the value of $31,000,000 it developed today when tax schedules were returned to the assessor. An increase of $2,000,000 is shown over last year. The Marshall Field estate scheduled $14,500,000.

GARAGE BURGLAR ABANDONS AUTO AT MILSTON, WIS.

E. H. Smale's Ford Runabout Is Recovered and Police Have Clue as to Possible Thief

POLICE NOW SEEK SUSPECT

John Doe Warrant Is Issued for Man Believed to Have Stolen Automobile

E. H. Smale's Ford runabout, stolen Tuesday night from a North Third street garage by a burglar, who entered the building through a rear window, was recovered today by authorities at Milston, Wis., where it had been abandoned by the auto thief. Mr. Smale and Police Detective Fitzsimmons left at noon to identify the property and get clues regarding the thief, who left there by train.

In the meanwhile the police today secured a "John Doe" warrant for a man whom they have located elsewhere and who is suspected of being the automobile thief. He will be arrested and examined.

ELECTRICAL MEN ADJUST TROUBLES ALL BACK AT WORK

New Contract Is Signed for Two Years Following Concessions by the Union Workers

All differences between the Electricians' local union and the Electrical contractors of La Crosse were settled amicably and a new contract for the coming two years was signed up and approved by the union at a meeting of the local at Labor hall last night. All of the men who had "laid off" their jobs pending the agreement are back at work today.

Under the new contract the union men made many concessions. They struck from the agreement the clause insisting that the contractors maintain "closed shops," and substituted a provision that contractors in engaging men must give preference to the members of the union.

The wage scale was left at 40 cents an hour, for eight hours work, and the clause providing for an increase to 45 cents an hour a year from now was modified to meet with financial conditions, it being contended by the contractors that the European war has so hampered business conditions that unless they improve, or if they grew worse, the contractors would be unable to meet the raise. The union will ask the city council to ordinance the electrical inspection ordinance and the law requiring that all electricians be licensed.

WIND BLOWS ROOF INTO SCHOOL AND CHILDREN ARE HURT

ARDMORE, Okla., May 6.—In a windstorm approaching cyclonic proportions today, several school children were injured, but not fatally, by the blowing in of a roof. A number of houses were unroofed and a few destroyed. At Wilson it is reported sixty houses were blown down, but there was no loss of life reported.

JAPANESE WAR PREPARATIONS CONTINUE AND CHINESE FEAR FIRST BLOW WITHOUT WARNING

THE MIKADO'S ATTITUDE

Yoshihito, Emperor of Japan

for resistance by the Chinese government—they think it will quibble to the last moment and then yield, possibly after a little perfunctory opposition.

They are not so sure there will not be trouble due to uprising by the people, who, it is admitted, seem to think Japan seeks undue advantages. Should there be difficulties of this kind, it is thought nobody can tell how serious they may become—"anything may happen in China"—but the Tokio government is prepared and hopes for the best.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Information from excellent authority today formulated the Japanese views of the present Chinese crisis as follows:

The Mikado's demands are only reasonable—they aim to maintain China's integrity.

Against this integrity he has no designs. He does feel, however, that it has been threatened in the past by countries other than Japan. His purpose is to avert this danger in the future. He considers this essential to Japan's welfare and thinks all of China's, as well as Japan's true friends should agree with him.

The Japanese do not look for resistance by the Chinese government—they think it will quibble to the last moment and then yield, possibly after a little perfunctory opposition.

They are not so sure there will not be trouble due to uprising by the people, who, it is admitted, seem to think Japan seeks undue advantages. Should there be difficulties of this kind, it is thought nobody can tell how serious they may become—"anything may happen in China"—but the Tokio government is prepared and hopes for the best.

PEKIN QUIET BUT OUTBREAK WILL FOLLOW INVASION

Chinese Cabinet Reported Divided Over Yielding but No Word Is Made Public

CHINESE ARMY IN BAD SHAPE

Best Troops Are in Capital but Short of Supplies and Unable to Offer Real Resistance

JAPS DEMAND ALL CONCESSIONS

Declare Chinese Answer Insulting and Nothing but Complete Backdown Acceptable

TOKIO, May 6.—An ultimatum from the mikado was sent to the Chinese government tonight, it was officially announced.

China was given until Sunday to accede to Japan's demands, which virtually give Japan control over China's international affairs. The ultimatum implied that force would be used by Japan if China's reply was unsatisfactory.

TOKIO, May 6.—The differences between the elder statesmen and the cabinet which threatened to result in the resignation of Premier Count Okuma have been adjusted and they are now in accord on the Chinese situation. The government hopes that China, when it finds that Japan is determined to insist on the demanded concessions, will meet its demands and there will be no necessity for a resort to force. Officials here have been prepared for an offer of mediation by the United States or Great Britain. Rumors are in circulation that suggestions along this line have already been made. The government has decided it will make public all of the records of the negotiations and feels confident that they will justify Japan's course.

PEKIN, May 6.—Fears that Japan is about to strike without warning, as she did in the Jap-Russian war, are freely expressed here. Nevertheless the capital remains quiet. Serious outbreaks will follow should Japan invade China. The government has suggested to the missionaries that they remain in their homes until the present situation develops.

The Japanese legation declines to say whether any further attempt has been made to reopen the negotiations or whether the Jap ultimatum has been delivered. President Yuan Shi Kai and the cabinet held a long conference today but nothing was made public.

Many Favor Yielding. It is understood that while a majority of the cabinet favored granting the Japanese demands, the minority took the position that to do so will simply add to the nation's troubles. If Japan takes control of China by force, the government will be safe, but if she is granted the right to dominate China's affairs, a revolution is certain.

The best troops in the army are assembled here, but they are not in shape to make any real resistance. They are short of ammunition and every sort of supplies.

Japan's troops are reported to have mounted cannons at Tsinan, in Shantung, without any opposition being made by the Chinese troops there.

Japs Insist on Complete Backdown. TOKIO, May 6.—Only a complete backdown on the part of China can prevent Japan taking forcible measures to compel acceptance of her demands. Officials generally expect this action although they say that China will continue her present policy until the very last minute.

Officially Japan continues her war preparations. Martial law has been declared on Kwang Tung peninsula and a powerful Japanese fleet is (Continued on Page Six)

U. S. STRIVING TO BRING AGREEMENT BETWEEN CHINESE AND MIKADO

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The Washington administration was watching the Jap-China situation minutely today. Officials said they were still without news of ultimatum from Tokio to Pekin. They would not discuss the situation in detail. Reports that the United States was trying to mediate could not be confirmed, but the belief was general that Japan was being urged to be moderate; China to make all reasonable concessions.

When asked today whether the government had received any news of an ultimatum, knowledge of which has hitherto been denied, from Tokio to Pekin, Secretary of State Bryan said:

"That is going too deeply into the matter."

From his statement it was generally inferred, however, that notification of the ultimatum's dispatch had at least reached the department.

Persons—not Japanese—familiar with far eastern affairs suggested today that a split between north and southern China was the likeliest result of present complications.

Business Is Good

HARPER, Kas., May 6.—Kansas is getting ready for the biggest prosperity parade of all. The big parade will start about one month from next Monday morning and will feature principally big self binders and headers which will parade around the great wheat fields in this section, followed by an army of harvest hands.

From Wellington to Medicine Lodge, seventy-five miles, is one great wheat field. Sumner, Harper and Barber counties have 550,000 acres to cut and that is just a small part of the Kansas wheat belt. The wheat stands high and strong and has a dark green color that makes the farmer begin to enlarge his bins and consult the family about how the money will be spent.

There is only one doubt about the crop—will it beat last year's bumper crop. Official estimates do not indicate that it will but the final count may be another story.

Little damage has been caused by the Hessian fly.

TREES AND BIRDS HAVE THEIR DAY WITH SCHOOL KIDS

Tomorrow is the day set by Governor Emanuel L. Philipp as "Arbor and Bird Day." An effort will be made by public and parochial school teachers to teach the school children the value of conserving bird and plant life.

Country schools are also preparing to have exercises for the children.

La Crosse schools will have short programs and in many instances will plant trees and shrubbery.

GO AFTER DRUG TRAFFIC

CHICAGO, May 6.—The federal government through District Attorney Cline today began a determined campaign to rid Chicago of drug prescribers, users and the commodity itself. Between 20 and 25 warrants were issued by Commissioner Lewis F. Mason today for alleged "crooked doctors," druggists and users.

SWEDISH VESSEL SUNK

COPENHAGEN, May 6.—The Swedish steamer Vanadis, from Blyth, coal laden, has been torpedoed and sunk in the Baltic by the German auxiliary cruiser Silvana.

The TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

HEROES AND OTHERS

BY CLARISSA MACKIE

Copyright, 1915, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"A clod—a clumber of the tarth!" Will Linscott stared grimly at his pale reflection in the hall mirror before he pulled on his cap and went limping painfully away from the house.

Mrs. Frake, the housekeeper, who had known him from trail boyhood, looked from her window.

"Poor Master Will!" she murmured. "What a pity, after all his years of suffering and all the operations, that he can't be cured! There's his Cousin Daniel—a big, strong man, like an ox, and not needing so much—why couldn't Master Will have had just a wee bit of that strength?"

Someone else was thinking the very same thing at the very moment when Will limped along the path that bordered the golf course and disappeared in the south meadow.

Alice Long, waiting while Dan Linscott executed one of his brilliant strokes, drew a soft breath of pity as Will's tall, gaunt form disappeared from view. Not once had he turned toward them, although he must have heard their cheery call—must have recognized the piercing whistle that Dan sent after him.

"He's all in this morning," said Dan, carelessly. "It's a deuced shame that Dr. Harkness failed to help him."

"It's more of a blow to Will than we can imagine," said Alice quietly. "Fancy having all the money one wants and able to buy everything save health!"

"Health—and a woman's love," amended Dan, with a meaningful glance at the girl's lovely face.

"Money never bought the love of woman who was really worth while," remarked Alice, flushing under his ardent glance.

Dan Linscott had plenty of money of his own, so he felt no jealousy of Will's handsome, delicate beauty. Dan was sure of himself—of his good looks, his ability to please, his success at all athletic sports, his power to win any woman he wanted for his wife.

He was even sure of Alice Long, whose people were victims of genteel poverty; sure of her love and sure of her good sense in marrying such an embodiment of everything desirable as represented by Mr. Daniel Linscott.

So he was in no great haste to put the important question to the girl. His week-end visits at his cousin's handsome country home afforded him an opportunity to see her frequently, and he felt sure that she was only waiting for him to make a formal declaration of his love. Then there remained only to slip a ring on her finger—such a ring it would be as she never had seen before—never dreamed of wearing.

Alice glanced at her watch and pleaded an engagement. She declined Dan's offer to accompany her across the fields toward home. Nothing loth, he remained behind. He could walk with Alice any time, and the course was in perfect shape, thanks to Will's thoughtfulness for, of course, the poor chap couldn't play a stroke himself.

At the piano or violin he was a wizard; but as for sports—one remembered he was an invalid and expected nothing out of that score.

Alice struck into the path and followed it to the south meadow where Will had disappeared. At the stile, she paused and, bending her hand above her tranquil blue eyes, she looked for some glimpse of his gray clad form.

But he was nowhere visible. The meadow waved like the sea, knee-high with daisies and buttercups. Meandering among the flowers ran a narrow path. Trees were scattered here and there, and over in the northeast corner a little group of red-brown cattle were grazing.

Alice crossed the stile and entered the narrow path. She was a strong, athletic young figure, clad in spotless white linen, with a red sweater, making a brilliant splash of color on the landscape. A little song trembled on her lips as she went along, but all the while her blue eyes searched the field for Will Linscott.

She came upon him suddenly lying prone in the grass, his face buried in his hands, the picture of despair.

Alice dropped down beside him and put a hand on his dark hair. "Don't Will!" she whispered.

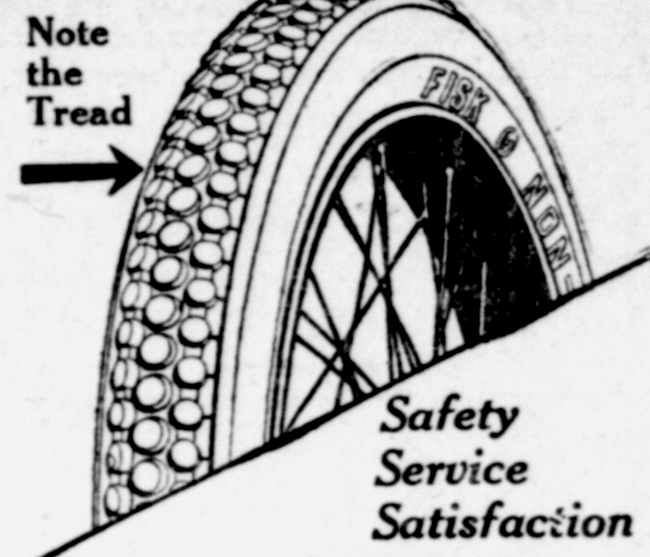

A dull red surged into his cheeks and left them drawn and white. Even his lips paled and his eyes were depths of agony and shame.

"Don't mind me, Will," she soothed him softly. "Why, we've been playmates and friends for years and years. I'm—Will, I cried myself to sleep last night when I heard Dr. Harkness' decision."

"You're an angel, Alice," he muttered with downcast eyes. Then he added, with grim defiance, "So did I—cry myself to sleep like a baby just because I couldn't have health. I'm so jealous of Dan and his strength and his good looks that I am beastly cross to him. I'm in the deuce of a temper, dear. There's only one thing I want in this world—it's the love of a certain woman and I don't dare ask her—to marry a clod!"

All the color went from Alice's face. It was true, then, what Dan had told her about Will's infatuation for Ruth Clarkson, the singer. Of course, such a music lover—such a musician as Will, would love another musician; it was usually so.

Yet he was so dear in his helplessness. He needed a woman who could love him sufficiently to devote her life to his happiness, a woman

Some one who has so grown into my life—that life is nothing without her. I've wanted her all my days—but I cannot offer her a broken husband, can I? And, besides, I have no proof that she cares for me more than a pitying friend! With Dan for contrast—I'm a poor object!" He turned his head away from her. "I wouldn't beg for her pity!"

"That would be foolish, Will, when you have her—love," whispered Alice, her eyes still hidden.

"Her love—yours? Alice, darling—you can't make me believe it!" he cried, fiercely. "There's Dan—"

"Dan—who is nothing to me," she sobbed. "As if anyone could look at Dan Linscott after knowing you!"

Then, he knew and believed, and took her in his long arms and pressed his thin cheeks to her round one.

"Why, I'm the happiest man in the world in spite of everything!" he cried at last, "even if I never have an opportunity to show off as a hero!"

"You poor, dear boy!" smiled Alice tenderly. "Don't you know you are a great hero in spite of yourself? You would have hidden your love from me to save me—if I had not rushed right in and made you say it!"

"And you are something of a heroine yourself," laughed Will happily, for now, with Alice, he felt that the whole world was his, and he would not have changed places with any man, not even Dan.

THE NATIONALISTS OPOSE DRINK TAX

LONDON, May 5.—Following a conference of the nationalist members of parliament, it was announced that they had decided to oppose the new cabinet drink law. This is the first open break in parliament since the outbreak of the war and it is feared may prove the entering wedge to more serious dissensions. It is considered certain that many of the laborites will support the nationalist measures. They are very bitter over the continual reiteration by the government leaders of the charge that the workers of the nation in reality are drunkards.

The labor leaders plan to make a protest in parliament against the charge that through drink their followers have seriously impeded British success in the war.

JAIL BIRD PLAN OF W. E. BARBER TO COME UP SOON

Resolution Proposing That County Prisoners Do Road Work Docketed for May 9

Former Supervisor W. E. Barber's resolution proposing that La Crosse county prisoners be worked on county roads under the supervision of the county highway commissioner, will be one of the chief considerations to come before the new board of supervisors, which will organize at a meeting May 19.

The resolution was tabled until this meeting after several attempts to definitely defeat it. County Highway Commissioner John Hintgen has inferred it would be successful with the proper management.

The much-talked-of resolution of former Supervisor Barber, proposing a county housekeeper for La Crosse county, which was killed by a majority vote of the supervisors at a recent meeting, will not be brought up again until next fall.

FAVOR ANNUITY BILL

The Monk bill calling for stricter regulation of employment agencies furnishing female employees, was also acted upon favorably.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Boy
Who Became A Scout.

And Blazed Away With His Gun at the Indian.

"YOU kiddies are interested in my bedtime stories of the west, I believe?" asked daddy, though he knew well enough. "Oh, yes, daddy," cried Jack and Evelyn.

"Well," went on daddy, "I'll tell you tonight about the little boy that became a scout."

"Oh," cried Jack, "did he wear long hair, and did he chase Indians?" "Yes," smiled daddy, "and sometimes I think the Indians chased him." "Tell us about it," urged Evelyn.

"So I will," agreed daddy. "Well, children, this little boy was born out on the plains, where there are not many trees and where there are not many hills and where the plains stretch for miles and miles, sometimes gentle and rolling, but oftener just as flat as a floor. And across these plains leap the jack rabbits, and the little gophers look up out of their holes, and the sun beats down in summer, and the winds howl across them in winter."

"And the little boy who became a scout was born out upon these plains. He wore a broad brimmed slouch hat, like all the western men and boys, and he wore a blouse and trousers of buckskin with cunning fringes, and they were long pants too. I guess that little boy never wore short pants that I heard of. He was one of the boys who grew up early, like many of those little western boys were apt to do."

"He had a little rifle, too, and he learned to shoot game just like his father and the other big men around there. You see, that was the only way they got fresh meat to eat, for there was not a butcher shop on the corner like we have here. The corners were all prairie grass, and great herds of cattle and buffalo used to roam over them. And the men used to shoot the buffalo for the meat and for buffalo robes."

"One day this little boy was out with his little gun, and a bad Indian crept up on him with his bow and arrow. But the little boy saw him and blazed away with his gun at the Indian. And he shot off two of the feathers in the Indian's headdress. And maybe that had Indian didn't run and run!"

"Well, this little boy grew up, and he had long hair down on his shoulders and a mustache and a little chin whisker, and he was very handsome. And who was he, children?"

"Oh, I know!" cried Jack. "He was Buffalo Bill!" "Yes, Jack," said daddy. "The little boy was finally the famous man scout, Buffalo Bill."

You Can't Brush Or Wash Out Dandruff

The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

Do this tonight, and by morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop at once, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and never fails to do the work.

TONIGHT THE PHILHARMONIC

Tonight is THE night. Again the Philharmonic society entertains us. They present the Spirit of Music as it moves the populace of La Crosse. Through them Artistic La Crosse speaks to us. They embody the civic phase of our aesthetics. This is the big public spirited thing about them. But of more immediate interest is the fact that they have found the genius and developed the skill essential to a truly enjoyable performance. It all means participate in this distinctive La Crosse musical event, have a part in its uplift and its pleasure.

FOR FAIRNESS IN COLORADO

John R. Lawson, leader of the Colorado miners' union in the recent labor war, is convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment for a crime which evidence shows was committed while he was eighteen miles away. Appeal from the lower court's decision will allege personal bias on the part of the trial judge because of former financial connection with Rockefeller's Colorado Fuel & Iron company. It will assert the jury was "hand-picked," that material evidence for the defense was excluded.

It is not healthy that a principle so far reaching as that enunciated in the Lawson case—that a labor leader is responsible with his life for the acts of workers fighting under his direction for what they conceive to be their rights—should be formulated under circumstances which allow of such pointed suspicion of the source. Concerning the legal aspects of the case the lay mind may not venture more than a private opinion, but it needs no legal lore to discover a widespread belief among labor men—and the history of Colorado's months of labor trouble is not so fair as to check its acceptance among others less directly interested—that Lawson has had something less than justice. It is thus fortunate that the issue in appeal is substantially whether Lawson got a square deal, rather than a technicality. It will tend to greater confidence in the principle involved if it should pass the supreme court test on its intrinsic merits.

While the matter is on the knees of the supreme court, Colorado has an opportunity for a stroke which would go far to re-establish faith in the honesty of its government, which it is not unfair to say has been questioned by those who have followed the events of the state's labor war and the revelations of the Federal Industrial relations committee and other inquiries.

No one has been held to account for the Ludlow massacre in which a score of women and children of strikers' families perished in flames. Would it be unfair to apply the new doctrine of personal responsibility to those whose orders loosed the volleys upon the strikers' canvas city of refuge and caused the torch to be applied?

END THE SCANDAL

A great many people are asking why this city must continue to be advertised as a municipality that countenances a bad police force.

The answer may be given in other questions.

Why must a few unfit men be retained on the force? Why must they remain to contaminate the department, to cast a shadow over the majority of clean and decent policemen? Why must the factions that quarrel over the department play one unit against another, each faction holding a threat over the other faction's bad man in order to protect its own bad man? Why must these object lessons exist to show every patrolman that he can be licentious without fear of higher authority? Why is the treatment of these cases involved in a mess of precedent and technicality so applied as to establish the idea that a man who cannot be sent to prison is fit for police service?

Why are three or four cases of unbecoming conduct and violation of rules permitted to keep the department before the public in its worst light? As long as those men stay, the condition will exist. Isn't it too bad that a situation which could be disposed of in a month, a nasty little mess of licentiousness and irregularity, touching but a single stratum of the department, is permitted to drag along from year to year? It is the smallest thing in the department, yet it belittles the entire department.

Why cannot the authorities get together, lay aside technicalities, ignore the factions, and face the facts: Here are three or four men who are involving the department, indeed, the whole city, in scandal. They are setting bad examples. Laying aside specific charges, they are not the right sort of men. Every one of them has been guilty of conduct upon which he can legally be removed, upon charges properly filed. The chief of police can make a quiet investigation, and limit his charges to a single provable act. Then the commission can remove the men.

What a change, in a day. Peace, good example, discipline, good repute, service—all restored!

It is the biggest present official opportunity in this city.

An old colored woman boarded a street car and proffered the conductor five pennies for her fare.

"I can't use them," he said gruffly.

"Dat's all right, honey," she replied. "Jes' you give 'em to the company. They kin use 'em."

Quips and Cranks
and Wanton Wiles

"Not as I will!"
Blindfolded and alone I stand.
With unknown thresholds on each hand;
The darkness deepens as I grope.
Afraid to fear, afraid to hope;
Yet this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go,
That doors are opened, ways are made,
Burdens are lifted or are laid,
By some great law, unseen and still,
Unfathomed purpose to fulfill,
"Not as I will."

Blindfolded and alone I wait;
Loss seems too bitter, gain too late;
Too heavy burdens in the load;
And too few helpers on the road;
And joy is weak and grief is strong,
And years and days so long, so long;
Yet this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go,
That I am glad the good and ill
By changeless law are ordered still,
"Not as I will."

"Not as I will," the sound grows sweet
Each time my lips the words repeat.
"Not as I will," the darkness reels
More safe than light when this thought steals
Like whispered voice to calm and bless
All unrest and all loneliness.

"Not as I will," because the One
Who loves us first and best has gone
Before us on the road, and still
For us must all His love fulfill,
"Not as I will."
—Helen Hunt Jackson.

"Just see the wind!" exclaimed little Bobby, looking from the window on a stormy day.

"You ask me to do something impossible," answered Bobby's papa, who was a great stickler for accuracy. "Wind is air in motion and you cannot see air. It is invisible."

"But, papa—"
"Well, my son—"
"I heard you talking about a sight draft the other day."

And pap didn't explain how he had raised the wind to meet that.

The high-browed young man was explaining the stars to a milk-browed young lady.

"And there is Taurus, the Bull," he continued, pointing upward.
"Gee, what do you know about that?" cried the damsel, vivaciously.
"I never had no idea Astronomy was so up-to-date. That word gets into everything don't it?"

Whereupon the young man's sigh was as the wind passing through the pine trees.

Not all young matrons are so unsophisticated as some persons think.

At Your Grocers
USTMAN MILL COMPANY, LaCrosse, Wisconsin

One striking exception resides in Harlem. Entering a butcher shop on the eve of a large house party to be given at her home, she saw displayed a dozen chickens.

"Please pick me out a half dozen chickens that are tough," she said. "I have a special reason."

The butcher put aside seven. "Are these all?" she asked. "Yes, ma'am," was the reply. "These are all tough ones."

"Then send the other five to my house at once," said the young matron.

The butcher is guessing still.—Exchange.

"What?" cried the careful housewife.
"You charge me $1.00 a bushel for those potatoes?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the polite grocer. "That is the very lowest price we can sell them for."

"How is it that I can get them from Brown's for ninety cents, then?"

"I cannot say, madam. Perhaps Mr. Brown has taken a fancy to you. He is a widower and you are beautiful. Unfortunately, I—yes'm, one dollar."

The pretty storekeeper was unpacking and assorting some new goods when her best young man entered. She stooped behind the counter a moment and arose with flushed face.

"I'm glad to see you're stocking up," he said.

There's an unaccountable coldness between them now.

A Second "Under Two Flags"

THE RED
MIRAGE

By I. A. R. WYLIE
Author of The Native Born, The Daughters of Brains, Etc.

Copyright The Fobbe-Merrill Company.

"What we all have to do—go on as though nothing had happened."
"Yes, you are quite heartless." She confirmed her first opinion with a certain satisfaction. "You have no womanly feeling."

"At least my lack of that commodity has destroyed no one."

They looked at each other in silence.

"I think—that wants explaining, doesn't it?" Sylvia said rather breathlessly.

"It ought not to. But you have gone back to the first phase, Madame Arnaud. You are pretending. You want to pretend that the lives that you have linked to yours have really nothing to do with you—that you are just a beautiful, innocent woman sitting among your dreams on a mountain-top far above the turmoil of ordinary mankind. And you want me to pretend with you. But I really can't. As you said—I know too much. I'm a discomfort. I know, for instance, that if Richard Farquhar dies out there in the desert, it is because you refused to save him by telling the truth. But that would have spoiled an amusing intrigue—a romance. You preferred to let the most defenseless of your trio act as a buffer between two men who have better cause to hate each other. These are the facts. And it is because I recognize them—that I am going—for your sake as well as mine."

There was another little silence. Sylvia Arnaud stood very quiet and pale by one of the Japanese tables and played idly with a silver bonbonniere as though it had arrested her passing attention. When she spoke again it was in the same breathless, jerky undertone.

"Yes; I think you had better go. Miss Smith. You are quite right—quite right."

"I thought you would see it if I explained." The gray-clad little woman placed a bulky envelope close to Sylvia's hand. "These are my wages, Madame Arnaud. I don't want you to think that I have told you home-truths, which is synonymous for rudeness, on the strength of the fact that I have nothing to lose by it. Truth is the last real luxury we have, and we have to pay for it."

Sylvia Arnaud looked up, genuinely taken aback and almost distressed.

"But without money—in a strange country—what will you do?"

"Oh, Madame Arnaud, that is a question people who really do things never consider." The gray-green eyes twinkled with the joy of adventure.

"When I come to think, the next best luxury after telling the truth is to be without money—and no friends."

The liberty curtains dividing the open door from the courtyard were pushed aside and Sylvia's English maid made her discreet appearance.

"If you please, Madame, a lady wishes to see you—Mrs. Farquhar, from England."

There followed a brief poignant silence. Sylvia Arnaud's hand tightened convulsively on the bonbonniere, and she looked at Gabrielle with the helpless appeal of a child who suddenly realizes that it has lost itself in a crowd of strangers.

"Tell Mrs. Farquhar that I—I am—"

But Mrs. Farquhar was already in the room. She stood for a moment on the threshold, smiling at them both, with the delighted consciousness of having successfully performed the part of an agreeable surprise-packet. Her appearance undoubtedly heightened the desired effect. She wore a white dress, heavily embroidered with Irish lace, and a white toque adorned with an aigrette, which sat on the white wig as though they formed an indispensable part of each other, which was more than probably the case. Moreover, she was profusely powdered, and looked, if possible, younger and more daintily self-assured than ever. For a minute, during which she hesitated, her bright eyes rested rather earnestly on Gabrielle Smith, who, bowing formally, went out into the courtyard with a grim amusement written on her small sunburnt face. Whereupon Mrs. Farquhar advanced and kissed Sylvia on both cheeks.

"My dear Sylvia—my dear little Sylvia—now I am sure I am the last person on earth you expected—an old woman traveling in a savage country full of foreigners! It's almost indecent, isn't it?"

Sylvia smiled faintly, like some one awakening from a stupor.

"Oh, I don't know. Won't you sit down? I certainly didn't expect any English person in this dreadful place. If one can live in England—"

She broke off suddenly. "What made you leave?"

"Oh, golf, chiefly." Mrs. Farquhar smoothed a stray and blatantly artificial curl from her forehead.

"You see, since my husband died I have been trying to cultivate that mistaken gift of heaven to women—my mind. Now to have what is commonly called a 'cultured mind' in England is like being an idiot among clever men. You feel all the time that people are trying to screw themselves up to your level and can't help being condescending about it. I know, for instance, no more humiliating position than to sit next an Englishman at a dinner party and to feel that he is dying to tell you about his—what do you call it?—handicap, but that he knows your poor mind can't soar above."

say, Wagner or Goethe—supposing he condescends to pronounce their names properly in the secret chambers of his own mind—which isn't likely—and that it's no good wasting intellect on you—"

She stopped with a breathless chuckle. "No, no, I felt I was sinking below the level of my kind, and had better get out of it. Perhaps I shall be more in my element among the savages. What do you think?"

Sylvia started with a nervous laugh.

"Oh, I really don't know. I certainly never guessed that you would go in for that sort of thing."

"That's a compliment. You meant I look too fluffy and nice and womanly. Yes I've gone off a good deal lately. I'm losing my looks and have to fall back on my brains. That's why women are so desperately anxious to keep young. They're so terrified of the day when they will be compelled to sit down and think about themselves. In my case, too, I had another excuse. You see, I have been rather lonely. Since Richard left—"

"Ah, yes, of course." Sylvia sat down with her back to the sunlight, her hands clasped tightly in her lap. "You must miss him very much."

"Oh, terrible. But that's our fate—to have to get on without the people we have suffered for. In a sort of way we rather enjoy it. Sacrifice is to a woman what drink is to a man. It comforts us over our worst trouble. You, for instance, I'm sure sometimes you feel sad—a little homesick—"

Frank Zemlicka Remembers Kids On His Birthday

"Why doesn't Frank Zemlicka have birthdays often?" is the question uppermost today in the minds of many of the children of the north side who were guests yesterday of Mr. Zemlicka at a matinee at Dreamland theater.

More than three hundred school children attended the performance. It was his birthday, but Mr. Zemlicka was shy about disclosing his age.

ART NOTES

The Art Workers' club will meet for organization at the Public Library on Saturday evening of this week at seven o'clock. Please be prompt, for another meeting follows this one.

The landscapes of any true artist bear his individual stamp. Though they are reproductions of what is palpable and material—that is nature—they are seen in an emotional and spiritual mood. Can't you feel the artists' different personalities and moods in the canvases, No. 8 and No. 18, for example? In No. 11 and No. 37.

The attendance at the exhibit is fine; the amount of real appreciation shown is most gratifying; the voting is improving, but not yet what it should be. Everyone should have a part, no matter how small, in the purchase of the picture chosen. The board of directors will scale their own efforts in bringing exhibits and lecturers here, and in pushing the permanent collection feature by the general interest shown. If you want a picture, help them buy one.

Memberships are coming in daily; but many more are wanted. Every one should join. The dollar is the only necessary expense to you for a year. With it, provided large numbers will join, at least two more exhibits and a lecture can be secured for this fiscal year. Isn't this value received? Don't feel that you are not wanted if not personally invited. To do this would require either money to hire a canvassing committee or that letters be sent out or require much time on the part of very busy people, who are now giving for the cause—of course gladly—all the time they can spare from other duties and business interests. This means you, Mr. Business Man, Mr. Professional Man, Mr. Laboring Man, Miss School Teacher.

TONNAGE LIMIT RAISED

Henceforth, tonnage of freights out of Milwaukee on the Milwaukee road will be increased 22 tons, according to notification received today at the local yard office. Under the equated tonnage rating sheet, adopted last summer, the maximum tonnage permitted to be hauled in one train was 2,200 tons.

WRECK AVERTED WHEN TRACKMEN FIND LANDSLIDE

Tons of Earth Fall from the Bluff at Clayton, Iowa,
Just Before Milwaukee
Train No. 3 Is Due

Vigilance of section men yesterday averted a possible serious wreck on the Dubuque division of the Milwaukee road, when a huge landslide was discovered four miles south of Clayton, Iowa, but a few minutes before passenger No. 3, due here at 10:45, was due to pass.

Several hundred tons of debris was precipitated onto the tracks from a bluff, which at that point is several hundred feet high. Freight and passenger traffic was tied up for hours, the morning train from the south arriving here after 1 o'clock, more than two hours late. A number of freight trains were held at stations along the line.

The slide was cleared away by a wrecking crew from Dubuque, which reached the scene less than an hour after it was discovered. The line was opened in two hours, although the wreck crew was kept on the scene late into the afternoon in anticipation of more damage.

MRS FISCHER OBJECTS

Mrs. Otto F. Fischer, until Tuesday Miss Pearl Scholberg of 1118 Berlin street, today was indignant at the published report that her sister, Miss Laura, had been given in matrimony to Mr. Fischer. She says she has the whole claim on her new husband, Miss Pearl Scholberg and Mr. Fischer, member of the postoffice force, were married Tuesday at the Presbyterian parsonage in Winona.

ELSIE'S LIFE SPOILED BY ECZEMA

Mrs. David Hughes of Sparta Tells of Hopeless Efforts to Cure

THEN D. D. D. CURED HER

Every skin sufferer would do well to read about our experience in trying to cure our daughter Elsie of a case of Eczema which has fairly spoiled her life from the time she was a very little girl. She is now seventeen years old.

For years every attempt we made to cure the disease was hopeless. It was a serious matter, of course, to let Elsie grow to be a woman with this terrible skin affliction and we left nothing undone that might relieve her. Doctors, remedies, salves, ointments, blood-purifications, all attempts were made one after another, and one after another they failed.

When we say that 13 bottles of the D. D. D. Prescription completely eradicated the disease, we are giving that prescription the highest praise that is in our power, for the disease, remember, was of twelve years standing. For twelve years other prescriptions, skin specialists, doctors had accomplished nothing. Thirteen bottles of the famous D. D. D. which we finally secured has made our daughter, at 17, entirely clean and free of any sign of eruption.

We are in consequence recommending D. D. D. wherever we have opportunity and have no objection to making public, for the benefit of other skin sufferers, our wonderful experience with this great specific. Mr. Dave Hughes, Sparta, Wis., R. 5, Box 42.

So confident are we that the D. D. D. Prescription will reach your case too, that if the very first full size bottle fails to do exactly as is claimed, it will not cost you a cent. Drop in and let us tell you more about this great remedy, D. D. D. Columbian Drug Store, Hoeschler.

WHO IS UNDISCOVERED DAHLGREEN TO PAINT BEAUTIES OF LA CROSSE?

(By Rev. W. J. Peacock)

Dahlgreen is the Chicago artist who quit business at forty-five, content with a modest income, determined to satisfy a taste for beauty.

Like a lot of people, Dahlgreen's taste was uneducated and therefore not a talent. Passed from one teacher to another, a cross between a problem and a joke, Dahlgreen's talent was a long time developing. If he really had a gift it seemed paralyzed by business, atrophied by want of exercise. But Dahlgreen persisted, and today his etchings are sought all over the land as examples of real art.

Parker a Business Man

Mr. Watson's story of this man and others has become a suggestion worth following up. Lawton Parker is a practical business man with a side-line at the Art Institute of such value as to secure him a gold medal from Paris. Mrs. Pauline Palmer is so active in Chicago society as to have an excuse for lack of time. Yet she turns out paintings of fine talent.

There is seldom a season but from among the toilers, the night classes of the Art Institute discover some submerged dreamer, the wings of whose vision have been clipped by the necessity for making a living. Here is a girl in the shop who trims hats for her associates without knowing how she does it. Yonder is a young fellow behind the counter who can dash off a sketch of his mates, utilizing a spare moment and a sheet of wrapping paper. Here is a messenger boy, in the ranks, or a school boy in recess, or a sign painter who haunts the galleries, all with eyes and hands restless because of a taste which has been improved or hindered.

Everyone has some artistic impulse, a native sense of beauty. Some have the inspiration to interpret life and put it into pictures, expressing what all of us feel.

Who is Our Dahlgreen?

Where is the undiscovered artist who will set before us the message Granddad has been teaching the city? Who will come to the front, encouraged and trained in a new atmosphere of art, who will have hand and emotions so disciplined as to disclose to the rest of us the wonders of our skies, towering bluffs, wooded slopes and stretches of water-front?

It is the chief mission of the Art Association to develop that good taste which is a universal birthright. And it will be equally good for the city and for those individuals or genius if the undiscovered Dahlgreens are inspired to give their talents proper development.

Towards this end the association offers membership to every person. Its volunteer instruction will be available for all who wish to profit by it. The pictures the association hopes to purchase are to be chosen by popular vote.

MOSLEMS DENY BRITISH CLAIMS

Turks Say Foe Holds Only Two Coastal Points Under Ships' Guns and Not Main Positions

STRAITS BOMBARDMENT RESUMED

Turks Reported by Allies to Be Losing Heavily in Land Engagements

CONSTANTINOPLE, via Berlin and Wireless to London, May 6.—Official denial was made today of the claims of the British that they are holding the main positions on the Gallipoli peninsula. The war office says:

"The alleged occupation of the Gallipoli peninsula and Nazara is entirely untrue. We control the entire peninsula, the enemy holding only two coastal points, Arburra, and Sedd-el-Bahr under the protection of the shell fire of his ships. He is, however, unable to advance. The Asiatic shore has been entirely cleared of the enemy."

Bombardment Continues

ATHENS, May 6.—Advices from Tenedos say that the allied fleet is continuing its bombardment of the straits, the fire being again directed by sea planes. The allies are declared to occupy interior peninsula positions of great strategic value. The Turks are constantly returning to the attack and are being beaten in heavy losses. In an engagement at Camp Kithra on Tuesday they left 1,500 dead in front of the British position. Their masked batteries have cost the allies heavily as the Turkish gunners have the exact range of all of the positions held by them.

The bombardment of Smyrna at long range continues. Prisoners confirm the rumor that the fire from the ships has annihilated an entire Turkish regiment.

NO EVIDENCE TO PIN GULFLIGHT AFFAIR TO KAISER

Experts Say Diplomatic Procedure Is Difficult Without Proof Which May Never Be Found

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The conviction was growing among state department officials today that the truth about the Guilflight incident may never be known. The department has statements from the vessel's officers suggesting that it was torpedoed by a German submarine, but the evidence is purely circumstantial. It was pointed out if even it is true it can only be corroborated by the German foreign office which could hardly be expected to prove a case against the kaiser. Without more evidence than is at hand at present, experts say it will be difficult for this country to proceed diplomatically.

PRICES OF FOOD IN THE FATHERLAND NOT LARGE COMPARED TO THOSE HERE

BY CARL W. ACKERMAN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

What it Costs to Eat in Germany

Eggs, best quality, per dozen, 28 cents; butter, best, per pound, 40 cents; bread, four buns (400 grams), 9 cents; sugar, per pound, 5 1/2 cents; milk, half litre, 3 cents; coffee, per pound, 50 cents; oranges, per dozen, 40 cents; lettuce, 2 heads, 11 cents; prunes, per pound, 22 cents; cream cheese, small box, 6 cents; dates, best quality, per pound, 36 cents.

BERLIN, April 16, by Mail to New York.—Food in Germany, while higher than it was prior to the war, is still not excessive when compared with the figures in the United States. Bread and coffee are the most expensive, although the prices of teas and meats are slowly crawling up. The prices quoted above were given today at one of the large Berlin stores.

It is of course, bread that is noticeably scarce. The white bread, sold by the baker, is now made of wheat and potato flour. It is impossible to purchase pure white wheat flour.

NEGRO MAID TELLS OF BRIBERY OFFER

Crushing Blow to Defense of Mrs. Carman Is Struck by Girl's Testimony

MINEOLA, L. I., May 6. The state rested its case at 2 o'clock this afternoon in Mrs. Florence Carman's trial for murder.

The state hit home with crushing force today in the Carman murder trial. The state's star witness, Celia Coleman, swore that last December, months after the first trial of the wife of the Freeport physician for murder, an attempt was made to bribe her to change her testimony in favor of Mrs. Coleman.

Mrs. Carman's face paled until it was as white as chalk. She nervously clenched and unclenched her hands. Attorney Levy, her chief counsel, appeared thunderstruck.

Another blow was struck the defense when George Toomey, the Coleman girl's cousin, said that two days after the murder before the inquest, Celia called on him and told him what she later related on the witness stand in the murder trial—of her seeing Mrs. Carman coming into the kitchen carrying a revolver and exclaiming: "I've shot him."

CORNERSTONE LAID FOR BUTTON PLANT EMPLOYEES ASSIST

Names of 240 Workers Who Make Pearl Buttons Here and Daily Papers Are Placed in Stone

Steadily falling rain failed to dampen the ardor of more than 200 employees of the Wisconsin Pearl Button works who assembled around the corner stone of what is to be the new home of the company as the stone was hoisted into place at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

They had a reason, as expressed by President D. W. MacWille, who said that the building was being erected for the comfort of the employees. "This affair today is purely and simply the employees' affair," he said to them. "The company must rely upon you for the product which it sells, and it owes a debt to you, which is the biggest purpose of this structure."

New Building to Cost $16,000 The employees expressed their enthusiasm as the bit of stone was added to the rapidly growing foundation of the new building, which will cost, when completed, about $16,000. The cornerstone contained the names of the 240 employees, a penny contributed by each of them; copies of the La Crosse daily papers of May 5, and catalogues of the company.

W. J. Koch, superintendent of the plant, made brief remarks, telling the employees that the firm made plans for its new home with the idea of making the best button works that they know how.

The outer brick, of which the building is being constructed, is being laid now, and the building will be ready for occupancy about July 1.

FRYE PROTEST IS SENT TO GERMANY

WASHINGTON, May 6.—The latest American note to Germany on the case of the bark William P. Frye, sunk by the kaiser's raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, was made public by the state department yesterday. The note was delivered to the German foreign office May 1.

The Frye's destruction was referred to as "a violation of treaty obligations imposed upon the imperial German government under existing treaty stipulations between the United States and Prussia."

The United States, it was continued, will not consider the German suggestion that the legality of the ship's capture and destruction, the claimant's standing or the amount of indemnity to be paid, be submitted to a prize court.

DID DOE CARRY OR MUST BIG LARRY LET FORD THIEF GO

Here's a new Ford story. When Police Captain Larry Dugan went to the district attorney's office today to get a warrant for the man who is suspected of having stolen E. H. Smale's Ford runabout, Tuesday night, he was surprised on reading it to find the wording:

"* * * John Doe did then and there, take, steal and carry away one Ford automobile of the value, etc."

"Huh! 'Carry away'?" mused the big policeman. "Say, supposing that had been a big car—how could you convict on such a warrant?"

EDUCATIONAL LAW FINDS OPPOSITION IN LEGISLATURE

Regent Wolfe of La Crosse Says State Board Might Make Politics Paramount in Schools

PRESIDENT VAN HISE LUKEWARM

"Pass Minimum Wage Law for Country Teachers," Says Wolfe, "and the Question Is Solved"

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—The new substitute amendment to the central board of education bill was given its first hearing by the joint committee on education Wednesday afternoon. The same forces and the same arguments that featured the hearings on the old bill were enlisted, but the strong feeling and bitterness that was so marked before were largely lacking in the sentiments expressed on both sides.

M. J. Cleary, representing the governor, explained the bill to the committee. It was not perfect, he said, but was in his opinion, and in the minds of its sponsors, more nearly what the administration had set out to accomplish than the original Van Gordon bill.

President Van Hise was rather agreeable to the bill. He said that personally he wished that nothing would be done to change the present system, but if it was in the books that a change was to be made, he would accept the proposal cheerfully. He said that the non-paid feature of the proposed board was gratifying to him. He declared that the limitation of the power of the board to the business management of the various institutions was also a good feature as it did not interfere with the administration of the schools by their faculties. President Van Hise opposed the exclusion of the Stout institute and the mining school from the authority of the board, however. In order that there might be no overlapping, he said, every state educational institution ought to be included. The title "State Board of Higher Education" also came in for criticism. The "higher" ought to be stricken out, he declared.

Regent Wolfe fights it

T. C. Richmond objected to the bill insofar as it limited the power of the board to the business management of the state schools. The board ought to be supreme, he said, and have power over every side of educational activity. He said that the board ought to have the power to discharge any professor or faculty member at any time without the formality of a trial, as provided in the bill if the involved person requests one. The board, said Mr. Richmond, ought to have the power to say what was to be taught and how it should be taught.

W. F. Wolfe of La Crosse, member of the board of normal school regents, struck a new note in the proceedings when he said that the bill did not provide that the board was to be non-partisan politically. With twelve members on the proposed body to be appointed by the governor, it would be a dangerous thing, he said, not to make some provision to care for this angle of the question. Mr. Wolfe also answered the question introduced by a number of witnesses on this and other educational bills on the subject of ways to aid the rural schools, by saying that if the legislature would pass a minimum wage law for rural teachers and stop trying to legislate county county boards of education out of existence, the object would be accomplished.

Evan A. Evans of Baraboo, Superintendent C. G. Pearce of Milwaukee, Col. W. A. MacGregor of Platteville and James A. Trotman of Milwaukee also appeared before the committee.

CALDWELL BILL WOULD STOP AID FOR POOR MOTHERS

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—Charles D. Rosa, assemblyman from Beloit two years and author of the mothers' pension bill now in effect, appeared before the assembly state affairs committee yesterday afternoon in opposition to the Caldwell bill which would wipe out the state aid for destitute mothers. Judge Rosa said that where this system was adopted it had worked out cheaply and that the state had sufficient interest in the child to see that it had a mother's attention whenever possible. He did not believe that institution children should be compared with children brought up in a home.

Assemblyman Caldwell in urging the repeal of the state aid feature of the law said it was the duty of the county to take care of those who are destitute. Only a few counties had stopped the plan, he said, and the change to the county system could now be made, thereby lessening the expense.

HIGH WILL HOLD BIG CARNIVAL AT SPARTA ASSEMBLY

Program Announced Today Includes Rare Entertainment of Local Talent; Want to Clear Debt

SPARTA, Wis., May 6.—(Special.)—What will be one of the most gorgeous and spectacular events in the history of Sparta will be staged at Assembly hall, May 14, when the High school under the personal direction of Mr. R. P. Rosenthal, and under the auspices of the Athletic association, will hold a high school carnival.

Plans for the evening have been maturing for many weeks and now for the first time it is announced what the nature of the event will be.

The grand outlay of talent and work is a final effort on the part of the association to emerge from the heavy debt under which they have been struggling for some time.

The program proper will represent every manner of talent available in the high school, a partial list of the performers is as follows:

A troupe of "German immigrants" in native costume has been imported direct from Der Elskeller auf Der Rhein, and will render some especially touching ballads.

From the Emerald Isle there will be Messrs. Grinn and Barret, Irish comedians of the old school.

Professor "A. Phine Pancake," infamous magician, juggler and chalk-talker, has been secured.

"Blitzenberg and Cantaryebrodt," German comedians direct from the seat of the European war, will occupy a few minutes.

Bagier's Last Appearance

The management, through special efforts have been successful in securing the "Boy Bugler," who comes direct to Sparta from a straight run of twelve weeks in Angelo and Leon.

This is to be his last public appearance, and the crowning conclusion of a long and successful career before the brilliant limelight reflectors of a few of Wisconsin's inland villages.

A dusty troupe of colored college youths have kindly consented to break the long trip and give Sparta a chance to hear this exceptional ballad, the rendition of which is especially worthy of note.

The Campfire Girls will help in the evening program with special interpretations of national songs.

An exposition of scouting will be given by Boy Scouts in uniform.

Both the Boys' and the Girls' Glee clubs will help make the musical part of the program enjoyable. The latter will appear in costume. The High school orchestra has been secured to furnish music throughout the evening.

Sidney Opens Doors

The interior work of the Sidney is very near completion, and Manager H. H. Hile has announced that the hotel will be ready for guests by Wednesday noon of next week. The formal opening will not be held until later when the finishing is entirely completed.

With the exception of La Crosse, Sparta will have the finest hotel in western Wisconsin.

The repairing has not been confined to the interior, but the addition of new porches, glass awnings and other improvements, will help to make the Sidney slightly as well as attractive.

NEXT DOLLAR DAY TO RIVAL FAIR IN STORE CROWDS

La Crosse's second Dollar Day will be a greater bargain event than the first one which was held March 1st. This is the promise of the merchants who are preparing for this popular sale to be held May 19th.

The advertising will appear in the papers of Monday, May 17th and a day will intervene to allow the out-of-town folks to take advantage of the many special offerings. That Dollar Day is especially attractive to people living out of town is evidenced by the fact that one of the leading merchants declared that his check room contained grips and packages of out of town customers on last Dollar Day to a greater number than during fair week.

Home folks, too, patronize Dollar Day, and no wonder. The many bargains that are offered attract everyone to whom the saving of money appeals.

Dollar Day is certainly the arch-enemy of The High Cost of Living.

BOSSHARD LEADS TO HELP FARMERS BEAT CHEESE BILL

Leading Dairymen and Cream Producers of Wisconsin Oppose Law
Lowering Standard

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—The Grell bill to permit the making of skim milk cheese in Wisconsin, met with spirited opposition before the assembly committee on agriculture Wednesday.

Senator Otto Bosshard, La Crosse, appeared against the bill, as a member of the committee which had submitted the proposition to the vote of the people at the spring town meetings. He presented a tabulation, with the return slips accompanying, showing that 790 out of over 1,200 towns in the state had voted on the subject, and that out of 34,000 votes recorded, 32,000 were against the passage of any legislation which would lower the standard of Wisconsin dairy products.

Wisconsin Would Suffer
Wisconsin's position as the leading cheese state in the union, especially as to quality as well as quantity would suffer with the passage of a bill of that kind was the opinion of J. Kirkpatrick, representing a large number of Richland county cheese dealers. He said that in his travels selling cheese from one end of the land to the other he seldom had any demand for skim milk cheese, and he felt that the reputation of the state would suffer if the high standard now attained were lowered by the introduction of skimmed milk cheese into the market.

G. H. Benkendorf, representing the Wisconsin Buttermakers' association supported the bill, saying that the skim milk cheese was a meritorious food product, which could be sold at a much cheaper price than the full cream cheese. The permission to make cheese out of skim milk would enable creamery men to pay a higher rate for milk, and thus withstand the competition of condensers which were fast driving them out of business in some sections.

Several creamery men appeared for the bill.

"RULE G" CALLED FILM SENSATION

(From The Moving Picture World—Reviewed by W. Stephen Bush.)
This feature establishes the right of a new company to class itself with the best producers on either side of the ocean. No other company has ever leaped into fame like this. Few of us had heard of the Blazon Film company, but it is safe to predict that we will hear the name on many lips in the course of the next few months.

"Rule G" will cause a sensation in the film world. Consisting of five reels, and dealing with a subject which required skill of the very highest order, there is not a single flaw anywhere—at least none I have been able to detect. We have had good railroad stories before and good railroad pictures, but never before has a railroad story been told on the screen which combined so many excellent features in such perfect proportion. Better acting on the screen I have seen rarely.

The feature is based upon a series of stories printed some little time ago in The Saturday Evening Post and entitled "How John Barleycorn was Driven Off the Tracks." You will at once suspect that there is a lesson and a moral purpose to this play which might injure its prospects as a screen attraction. There is, indeed, a noble purpose back of this feature, but it is very far from being "preachy." Here a high-gifted mind, filled with a true perception of the powers of the screen, has assembled a wonderful picture, a true photograph of real life. At the end of it all the noble purpose flashes out like sheeted lightning. I venture to say that most people will stay in their seats for a few minutes after they have seen the picture, for it deeply touches every string in the human heart and it sets your brains in motion in an elevating sort of way.

Showing Thursday, Friday and Saturday this week at the Bijou.

MOTHER CONFESSES STRANGLING CHILD

Tired of Life She Kills One Son but Loses Nerve and Fails to Take Life of Baby and Self

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 6.—Mrs. Susie Wodjik, the police say, has confessed that she strangled her six year old son Adam, whose body was found in the rear of their home Monday morning. She broke down a few hours after she had attended the boy's funeral yesterday afternoon, where in the company of detectives she was allowed to see the body for the first time since her arrest.

"I was tired of the existence I was leading," she is alleged to have told the police. "I intended killing Johnny and myself too. I told Adam to come into the alley, and then I took him by the throat and choked him until he stopped struggling. I put a piece of cloth in his mouth and left him against a telephone pole. I went back to the house with the intention of taking my own life and that of my baby. But on the way home something seemed to grip my heart and when little Johnny ran up to me, I lost my nerve."

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE NEW HENRIETTA"
Professional jealousy, the bete noir of theatrical managers and the bane of existence to actors, is strangely eliminated from the five-star combination—Crane, Ross, Arbuckle, Bingham and Tallafiero—appearing in "The New Henrietta," booked for presentation at the La Crosse theater for one performance only, on Tuesday evening, May 11. These five distinguished players live together professionally in the utmost amity.

The bickerings and jealousies that have marred many theatrical productions are entirely absent from the company which Joseph Brooks has put into Bronson Howard's famous old play, which has been cleverly rearranged by Winchell Smith and Victor Mapes. This well known fact has made much talk and gossip in theatrical circles and wherever there is a gathering of players in the clubs and restaurants of New York, Boston, Chicago and other cities, frequented by the better sort of actors the conversation eventually turns on the delightful life behind the scenes of "The New Henrietta." The success of the combination from the standpoint of the box office has been as remarkable as the success of its social side on the further side of the curtain.

BILLIE BURKE

Someone asked Miss Billie Burke the other day if she wouldn't like to go over to Europe and help nurse wounded soldiers. "No," said Miss Burke, promptly, "I wouldn't, for I think I have a more important duty to perform right here at home—helping to amuse and entertain the public—making them a bit happier, maybe." That is really Miss Burke's mission in life—to make people happy—and everyone knows how well she succeeds. In "Jerry," the comedy by Catherine Chisholm Cushing in which she will be seen at the La Crosse theater Wednesday, May 12, she is given a bigger opportunity for fulfilling her mission, they say, than she had in any of the other plays she has done.

GERMAN WAR FILMS

The German war moving pictures which are to be shown at the La Crosse theater Saturday and Sunday have won high praise wherever exhibited. The Aurora Beacon-News says of them:

"The pictures are very interesting, and well worth a visit by all who are interested in the war. The pictures shown are views snapped by a photographer with the German army and are of historical value."

The soldiers are seen in camp, field, on the march and in action.

"There are 100 exciting scenes, showing the Kaiser speeding his troops to the front, reading of German proclamations to the people of Berlin from the royal palace balcony; also all the German officers who have won special honor for valor in the field and on the sea, including the victorious commander of the submarine U-9."

RALPH TOLAND IS SOLOIST TONIGHT AT BIG CONCERT

One of the most interesting features of the concert to be given tonight at the La Crosse Theater by the La Crosse Philharmonic society will be the vocal selections by Ralph Toland.

Mr. Toland possesses a rich baritone voice of rare quality, and has, moreover, a fine dramatic instinct which enables him to render his solos with discrimination. Those who have heard him sing "Danny Deever" will be glad to know that he has selected for tonight another powerfully dramatic number entitled "How's My Boy?" In this number is told the story of a mother who has received news of her boy's death in a shipwreck. The grief tenderness of the old sea captain as he tells the sad tidings, the first disbelief of the mother, and her final despair as she realizes that her boy is lost to her forever furnish themes that call for the interpretation of true artists.

Mr. Toland is seconded by the wonderfully artistic accompaniment of Walter Goetzinger, the famous blind musician. The team work of the two is perfect, and the result is the rendition of this and similar numbers make a profound impression.

The orchestral program is especially interesting, including the beautiful "Rosamunde" overture by Schubert, and the Coronation March from "Le Prophete" by Meyerbeer.

MYSTERY BOAT TO BE ENTERED FROM ST. LOUIS IN MEET

At the plant of a leading boat building concern in St. Louis a new racing boat is under construction with which the owners, whose names are being concealed, expect to "clean up" the class races at the annual regatta of the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association at Hannibal, Mo., July 1, 2 and 3.

Power Lange of Hannibal attracted national attention among power boat men last fall when his two-cylinder "Hammer" defeated every thing in sight at the Hannibal club races, following which he issued an open challenge to any two-cylinder motor in the United States.

Rock Island and Davenport race boat owners are contributing new boats and it is said the owners of the famous Water Witch of Muscatine will have a new craft that will make "Hammer" M. hustle. Padgett and Evers of Quincy, Ill., whose "Teaser" would without doubt have captured most of the class events at Peoria last year, but for ill luck, are said to be building a new craft with which they expect to make the "Baby Speed Demon" III crowd on full steam. From over at Muskegon, Mich., E. B. Blackly sends word that he will enter a four-cylinder racing canoe.

Booked Ahead. "Now that your son is through college, what are you going to make of him?" "Can't tell for a couple of years. He went to a co-ed institution, and he's booked up for two years solid to act as an usher at weddings."

Yesterday's Homers
Oldring, Athletics, off Keating, Yankees.
Zwilling, Whales, off Suggs, Terrapins.
Beck, Whales, off Suggs, Terrapins.
Owens, Terrapins, off Hendrix, Whales.

And now the Cubs come to bat with the rest of the surprises. They have won seven straight. Another win today, if the Phils lose, will shoot Rajah's crew into first place.

It looks as though the Giants were started at last. Any team that can beat G. C. Alexander seems to have got a start.

Tyrus Raymond continued his career of swat, getting three hits yesterday.

Just when the public was all set for baseball peace, the magnates started for the cyclone cellar denying all rumors of a lull in hostilities.

Tristram Speaker has brought his light from under the bushel, too. His triple was the whole show at Boston yesterday.

"Yip" Owens ought to be good for several things in Baltimore now, winning a game with a home in the tenth.

BADGERS IN TRIM FOR THE HOOSIERS

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—In fine trim after their double victory over Indiana and Purdue last week-end, Coach Lewin Wisconsin nine is ready to give the Hoosier team a strong battle in the second game of the home series this afternoon at Camp Randall.

Wisconsin will meet Illinois on Saturday in what is considered one of the crucial games of the season.

Although it is the custom of the Badger coach not to announce his choice of batteries until just before the game commences, it is thought that either Moon or Galvin will do the twirling for Wisconsin.

CLOTHIERS GO TO HOKAH ON SUNDAY

Bell May Pitch in the First Scheduled Game of the Year Against Old Rivals

Playing under their new name of La Crosse Clothiers, the old Summits, recently reorganized with William Wagner as manager, will on Sunday journey to Hokah for the first game of the championship season. The trip will be made by automobile. The full roster of the club will be taken along.

Manager Wagner is undecided as to whom he will pit against the Minnesotans, although it is possible that he will send in Merritt Bell. In that case, "Art" Tanke will be behind the bat.

THE GOOD JUDGE MEETS THE VETERAN MAIL-CARRIER.

THE beauty of the Real Tobacco Chew is that the longer you use it the better you like it. Result is that men keep using it steady—and count it a pleasure to be able to pass the tip along to friends.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—seasoned and sweetened just enough—cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

THE REAL TOBACCO CHEW IS NOW CUT TWO WAYS! W-B CUT IS LONG SHRED. RIGHT-CUT IS SHORT SHRED.

Take less than one-quarter the old size chew. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just take a nibble of it until you find the strength chew that suits you, then see how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is The Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end. The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up. An excess of licorice and sweetening makes you spit too much.

"Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste."

GILMORE DENIES REPORTED PEACE OF FEDS AND O. B.

Is Indignant at the Story Printed in St. Louis Paper; "No Agreement with Any League"

FRENCH LICK, Ind., May 6.—"You can print it in large type that the Federal league has made no agreement with organized baseball or any league. This story coming from St. Louis is false and I wish you could trace down the fellow responsible for it," said President Gilmore of the Federal league today. He referred to the story printed by the St. Louis Republic to the effect that a peace agreement had been reached between the American and Federal leagues.

Seems like old times: "James in excellent form. Cather triples with bases full. Gowdy triples, sending Maranville home. Braves win."

GROH HELPS REDS KEEP HIGH PLACE

Heinie Groh of the Cincinnati club is hitting the ball hard this season. He has a batting average well above .400 and the averages last week showed him leading the league in batting. Heinie is making a good all-round showing, and this helps to explain while the Reds are now traveling in the first division.

La Crosse on Route of Dedicators of Lakes to Puget Sound Auto Highway

May 15 Will See Hundred Parties Make Trip of 2,350 Miles in Daylight of One Day.

Automobile Road Leading to Pacific Coast By Way of Yellowstone, Glacier and Mount Rainier National Parks Ready for Traffic June 15.

Over the route traversed fifty years ago by the pioneer prairie schooner, when La Crosse was but a river settlement and trading post, La Crosse will this month watch the progress of the first autos to dedicate the Great Lakes to Puget Sound highway. Several automobile parties will start early on the morning of May 15 and will pass through La Crosse some time in the afternoon. On that date the road will be formally dedicated, and it is expected that thousands of parties will take advantage of it in tours to the San Francisco exposition.

The autoists will enter La Crosse via State Road Coulee, striking Jackson street at Eighteenth. The route through the city is laid out over the best paved streets and leads out over the Mississippi wagon bridge. The route through La Crosse was blazed with painted red signs last summer.

La Crosse to Greet Tourists.
La Crosse is expected to turn out in large numbers to greet the first parties to officially traverse the road. The autoists will personally inspect every foot of the route. Before the heaviest of the stream of travel begins, the 2,350 miles of highway, stretching from the lakes to the Pacific ocean and climbing two mountain ranges will have been thoroughly gone over. The May 15 tours are preliminary moves to put the highway in spick and span condition.

Where Custer Fought.
Sixty years ago settlers toiled over part of this route in their prairie schooners, headed for the almost inaccessible wilderness which the northwest then was. Custer and his army fought and perished on the Montana plains near Billings, and for a time the settlement of the far west seemed a problem that it would take many decades to solve.

Thirty-five years ago the first railroad had not reached the site of the city of Spokane and the promoters of the Northern Pacific were met with such skepticism as to the value of the northwest that they were forced to go to Germany for capital. Many Americans regarded the territory now comprising Oregon, Washington and Idaho much as did the commission sent out from England at the time of the "54-40 or fight" controversy. They gravely reported to the British parliament that the disputed area was "good for nothing but fishing, and not very good for that, since the salmon rise to a fly for only a short period every year."

In 1945 the "inaccessible wilderness," a territory larger than that lying between the St. Lawrence and the Potomac, and far more beautiful, will be traversed by many thousands of automobiles carrying pleasure seekers, sportsmen and in many cases whole families, bound for the California expositions over the cool northern route which leads through the summer playground of America and past Yellowstone, Glacier and Mount Rainier National Parks.

Instead of a trackless wilderness, visiting tourists will find a smooth highway, which, after crossing the plains, climbs the Rockies, the Bitter Root and the Cascade mountain ranges, and ends within sound of the breakers of the Pacific ocean—a highway more than 2000 miles in length and with no excessive grades from one end to the other.

TRAIL LEADS THROUGH THE BAD LANDS.

There is probably no equal area on the American continent which offers so great a diversity of scenery, resources and interest as that traversed by the National Parks Highway along the route from Chicago to Seattle. From Chicago to the Twin Cities the old Sheridan Road leads through the picturesque lake country of Wisconsin. Crossing Minnesota the farming and dairying country of that state is seen to advantage, and is succeeded by the wheat belt of the Dakotas.

Then come the famous Dakota "Bad Lands," worse in name than in fact. The Bad Lands, once an arid, bewildering maze of eroded hills and buttes, are now pierced by the well-marked Yellowstone Trail, which continues westward and across the farming and grazing plains of eastern Montana.

At Livingston a branch road leads south to Gardiner and the gateway to the Yellowstone National Park. Heretofore automobiles have been barred from entering the park, but strong pressure is being brought to bear to have this rule rescinded.

Continuing west from Livingston along the Northwest Trail, now incorporated in the National Parks Highway, the main ridges of the Rockies begin to shoulder above the horizon, dwarfing the foothills, and seeming to present an impassable barrier to the farthest west.

NEARLY 7000 FEET ABOVE SEA LEVEL.

The famous Gallatin valley is entered at Bozeman, and at Three Forks the Gallatin, Jefferson and Madison rivers unite to form the Missouri. Once fairly past the foothills and into the mountains the motorist is led gradually up and up, practically by a water grade, from tributary to tributary of the numberless mountain streams, threading the valleys until just east of Butte, at an elevation of 6950 feet above sea level, the continental divide of the Rockies is crossed through Pipestone Pass. The excellent road through this pass was built a few years ago by a Butte banker and automobilist at his own expense.

The Butte copper mines, some of them with a depth of 3000 feet, and with more than 2500 miles of underground tunnels, will well repay a visit, as will the Washoe smelter at Anaconda, the largest in the world, after which the route leads west to Missoula by way of Deer Lodge and the Hell Gate River canyon.

Three years ago there was no feasible route westward from Missoula across Idaho to Spokane, but now, by grace of high pressure activity on the part of good roads associations and county and state officials in Montana, Idaho and Washington, four good routes are open for travel.

The most direct of these is known as the St. Regis-Wallace road, leading up the St. Regis river, over the Idaho-Montana state line, and on to Wallace by way of Mullan.

Wallace is the commercial center of the Coeur d'Alene Mining district, which produces about 30 per cent of the lead mined annually in the United States. The ore also carries high silver values, and there are copper mines in the Mullan section of the district. A few miles west of Wallace, at Kellogg, the highway passes the portals of the Bunker Hill and Sullivan mine, the greatest silver-lead mine in the world, both in point of size, production and profits.

A second route circles by way of Thompson Falls, crosses the summit of the Bitter Root range at Thompson Pass at an elevation of 4862 feet, and, going by way of Murray, rejoins the more direct route at Wallace. The highway then descends from Wallace along the Coeur d'Alene river, passes through Fourth of July canyon and enters the productive Spokane valley at Coeur d'Alene City, leading into a magnificent stretch of road bordered by two rows of apple trees, and traversing a checkerboard of five and 10-acre fruit tracts intensively cultivated.

The third route goes north from Thompson Falls through an excellent fishing and hunting country and reaches Spokane by way of Sandpoint. The longest of the four feasible roads leads from Missoula to Spokane by way of Kalispell, Libby, Troy, Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint. From Kalispell a good road along the gorges of the Flathead river leads to the foot of Lake McDonald in Glacier National park.

Once arriving at Spokane the automobile tourist will have a wide variety of side trips awaiting his choice, for there are more than 50 mountain lakes within a radius of 100 miles of the city, and all are accessible by improved, permanent roads.

COLUMBIA RIVER AND THE APPLE BELT.

Macadam roads are encountered for the first 50 miles of the journey westward from Spokane. The valley of the Columbia river is entered through Corbaley canyon. The route then leads to Wenatchee, the thriving city in the center of one of the most widely known Washington apple belts, up the Wenatchee river and Peshastin creek, and over the Wenatchee mountains through Blewett pass.

The valley of the Yakima river affords excellent traveling through Cle Elum and Easton to Lake Keechelus. The highway then skirts the east side of the lake and begins the ascent of Snoqualmie Pass, the last hard pull of the whole journey, from the north end of the lake. The crest of the Cascades is crossed by Snoqualmie Pass at a height of 3001 feet, after which all the roads found leading to Seattle are in good shape. Mount Rainier National Park, on the lower slopes of the majestic, snow-crowned Mount Rainier, is reached by a short run southward.

From Seattle to Portland a variety of much-traveled routes is open, and the road from Portland to San Francisco by way of the Willamette valley, Mount Shasta and the Sacramento valley, has been in general use by Pacific coast motorists for several years. Excellent coastwise or inland roads lead from San Francisco to San Diego, by way of Los Angeles.

A few years ago the trip to the west by automobile would have been almost as venturesome as the voyage of Drake to the Spanish Main, and all manner of emergency tools would have been a necessary part of the equipment.

NOT MANY AUTO TOOLS NEEDED.

The rapidity with which the roads of the northwest have been brought to their present state of perfection has tended to reduce this bulky equipment to that ordinarily provided for long cross country runs. Each car should be thoroughly overhauled before starting, and should have new shoes all around, and two spare tires, as well as half a dozen inner tubes. With the possible exception of odd sizes tires may be procured in practically all of the larger stopping places on the route. A shovel, an ax, a set of chains and cross chains, a tow rope and tarpaulin, and a canvas bucket may be found necessary.

Those expecting to camp out all or part of the way will find additional equipment necessary, but adequate accommodations for tourists will be found at all of the towns, and there are no very long stretches without well equipped supply points.

For hundreds of miles the National Parks Highway leads through the cool green woods of the northwest, and is usually following the course of a mountain river or stream, or skirting the shores of a mountain lake. For those who like hunting or fishing a rifle, a shotgun, a fishing rod, and a supply of trout flies will be indispensable, for there is no sportsman's paradise in the United States comparable to the mountain districts of the northwest which are crossed by the route.

For the accommodation of motorists the Washington State Good Roads Association, with headquarters at Spokane, has prepared maps of the highway, and these are being sent to hundreds of persons seeking detailed information about the trip.

WAR STIMULUS NOT PROSPERITY—TAFT

Former President Asserts Present Trade Activity Is Artificial and Will Not Outlast War

BOSSHARD AT DINNER WITH HIM

La Crosse Senator One of Party at Affair Tendered Ex-President by Van Hise Tonight

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—(Special.)—Senator Otto Boshard of La Crosse, is to be one of the guests at an exclusive and purely informal dinner to be tendered ex-President Taft by President and Mrs. Charles R. Van Hise tonight. Other guests are Gov. E. L. Philipp, Lieut. Gov. Edward F. Dittmar, Speaker Lawrence Whittier and Senators Scott, Biehler, Bray, Fairchild and Whitman. The guests will remain at the residence of President Van Hise following the dinner, the evening to be devoted to visiting and chatting with the former chief executive.

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—"The United States is at the present time enjoying an artificial stimulus in many branches of industry occasioned by the great struggle that is devastating our sister countries across the water. But we must take care that we are not misled in thinking that we are profiting, because of this war, from real prosperity."

Former President William H. Taft thus prefaced his opinion on the foreign and domestic policy now being pursued by the United States before a joint convention of the legislature here this morning.

"We are in a state of anxious expectancy," said Dr. Taft. "We must take care that we are not misled in thinking that this temporary financial advantage that we are enjoying because of the paralyzing of European commerce is to be permanent. When peace does come, a thing for which the entire world is ardently praying, the European countries will again take their places in the industrial and commercial activities and the false values now set will fall. Let us not be caught in the trap."

"We have been charged with violation of international law by the sale of arms and ammunition to foreign countries. This argument cannot consistently be followed. The United States, of all countries, should not attempt to lay down any rule prohibiting the sale of war munitions. We will always be unprepared for war. If the rule is universally adopted, it will tend to increase the armament of the world. Countries will see to it that they are in a position that when war does come they will not be obliged to depend upon others for their supplies."

"I am hopeful for peace," said the ex-president. "I am in accord with the strict neutrality policy of the president and I trust that it will be maintained uncompromisingly."

FAREWELL PARTY AT TEMPLE

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Stevenson, Mrs. M. J. LaCourt and Miss Irene Snyder, members of Ruth Chapter No. 23, Order of the Eastern Star, will be the guests tomorrow night at a farewell party to be given in their honor at the Masonic temple on Rose street. A program will be given and refreshments will be served. Mr. and Mrs. Stevenson are to move soon to Farmington, Minn.; Mrs. LaCourt is to move to Milwaukee, and Miss Snyder, it is understood, is to move soon to Viroqua.

"Do only time some men ever commands any respectful attention," said Uncle Eben, "is when dey whistle to de dog."

Helen—"Why? Has he proposed yet?"
Mary—"No; but he dislikes mother more every time he sees her."—Liverpool Mercury.

So determined is a woman to "look up" to the man she loves that if she married a worm she would dig a hole in the ground and crawl into it in order to be able to put her head on his shoulder and say: "Darling, how big and strong and tall you are."

Leaves as Fertilizer.
Thousands of bushels of first-class fertilizer are wasted every fall when the burning of the leaves begins. These same leaves spread over the gardens and spaded under in the spring would prove of great good, but the smoke given off in burning them produces nothing but choking coughs.

A Woman's Way.
So determined is a woman to "look up" to the man she loves that if she married a worm she would dig a hole in the ground and crawl into it in order to be able to put her head on his shoulder and say: "Darling, how big and strong and tall you are."

Some Indication.
Mary—"I'm positive Fred loves me and intends to make me his wife."
Helen—"Why? Has he proposed yet?"
Mary—"No; but he dislikes mother more every time he sees her."—Liverpool Mercury.

DODGEVILLE MAN SENTENCED BY JUDGE HIGBEE

DODGEVILLE, Wis., May 6.—(Special.)—S. J. Toad, well known here, was yesterday sentenced to twenty-five years in state's prison for assault with intent to murder, after one of the most sensational cases which this locality has ever seen. Toad was accused and found guilty of firing a revolver through a window at an aged woman. Toad was sentenced by Judge E. C. Higbee, of La Crosse.

Military Titles.
The titles "colonel," "major," "captain," as applied to officers of the militia, are perfectly proper and quite legitimate, and those holding such positions are clearly entitled to use the titles that go along with them.

GOVERNOR SLATON MAY RESPITE FRANK

ATLANTA, Ga., May 6.—Gov. Slaton, instead of his successor, Governor-elect Harris, seemed likely today to act, after all, on the application of Leo M. Frank, convicted of Mary Phagan's murder, for a commutation of sentence from death to life imprisonment.

The federal supreme court mandate in the case will reach Atlanta Friday. Frank will then be resented to hang. The prison board's session will end Saturday, but it is expected a special meeting will be called. Should the board delay, however, Slaton will respite Frank to give Harris time to act.

Wonder who loses all the fault everybody seems to find.—Philadelphia Ledger.

IT TAKES REAL MAN TO GET INTO NAVY SAYS RECRUIT MAN

That the physical status of the La Crosse young man is decreasing, must be the opinion of Naval Recruiting Officer F. A. Nippa here.

Of twenty-five applicants for admission to the United States navy made at the local office in the Federal building last month, not one was accepted.

Flat feet, defective eyesight, in one case, color blindness, over and under weight and other physical defects were given as some of the causes.

The number of applicants was exceptionally large, and the number turned down is as great.

When a man gets so old he can't sleep much, he derives some pleasure from boasting about his early rising.

BRITISH LIQUOR TAX KILLED BY IRISH

LONDON, May 6.—The cabinet today discussed at some length various proposed modifications of the Lloyd-George liquor bill. The bill in its original form is admittedly dead. The opposition of the Irish members killed it.

It is believed that a compromise bill, giving the government the power to close establishments that are dangerous to workers will be finally framed.

BRITISH HOSPITAL FORMING IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, May 6.—A complete hospital unit to be known as Chicago Corps is being organized here for the British army, it was learned today. At the request of the British war department, Dr. John B. Murphy is organizing the corps to consist of thirty-two Chicago doctors and seventy-four nurses. It is expected to be ready to sail in five or six weeks.

Leaves as Fertilizer.
Thousands of bushels of first-class fertilizer are wasted every fall when the burning of the leaves begins. These same leaves spread over the gardens and spaded under in the spring would prove of great good, but the smoke given off in burning them produces nothing but choking coughs.

BRITISH TO PLACE EMBARGO ON COAL

LONDON, May 6.—Consternation followed in mining circles today an announcement of the intention of the government on May 13 to place an embargo on the exportation of coal to any place other than British possessions and the allied countries. It is feared this action will force the closing of many collieries and that thousands of miners will be thrown out of work. Pressure was being brought to bear today to have the order modified to permit coal exports to Scandinavia and South America.

MINIMUM WAGE FOR WOMEN NOW BEFORE SOLONS

Vint Bill Is Argued at Madison and Social Workers Invited to Enlighten Legislators

MADISON, Wis., May 6.—(Special.)—The Vint bill, establishing a minimum wage for women over 18 years working in manufacturing or mercantile establishments in the state of Wisconsin, was instrumental in bringing out a large gathering of social workers, manufacturers and others interested at a hearing held by the assembly judiciary committee Wednesday.

The author presented the reports of investigators of the industrial commission, which showed that it cost on an average of $9.50 per week to maintain a female worker in reasonable comfort.

In reply to statements that many girls were living for less than that amount, he presented the figures of the investigators for this and other states, which pointed to the conclusion that this was because some one else contributed in the form of charity or otherwise to make up the difference.

Consumer to Pay Increase

Mrs. J. R. Commons, representing the Consumers League of Wisconsin, endorsed the bill, saying that the consumer would perhaps pay the increase if there was any, but that they ought to demand low prices, at the expense of poor living conditions for women, who are to become the future mothers of the state.

Wm. Leicerson, unemployment expert with the United States commission on industrial relations, supported the bill, saying that female workers were not organized, the only other method by which they can obtain what they are entitled to, and for that reason it was the duty of the state to interfere to set a minimum, which should be a living wage.

Chester Barnes, representing the Kenosha manufacturers' association, opposed the bill on the general ground that it would result in throwing the inefficient entirely out of employment, and they would become a burden on the community.

Judge Paul D. Carpenter, representing the Milwaukee Merchants and Manufacturers' association, also spoke in opposition, saying that the determination of what constitutes the living wage could very safely be left to the industrial commission, which is under present law vested with that authority.

"Whys" of Moves in European War

BY J. W. T. MASON
NEW YORK, May 6.—Great Britain intends to curtail her recruiting, and an unlimited supply of Englishmen will not be sent to the front to be killed or maimed after the continental fashion.

This sudden change in the British attitude toward the war was announced in somewhat more diplomatic language by Lloyd-George last night in the house of commons. The chancellor of exchequer said there were three parts England could play in the war. She could keep command of the sea, she could maintain a great army on a continental scale and she could bear the burden of financing the allies. The first and third of these things England was doing, but the second could be done only within certain limits. Great Britain had raised an enormous army, the Chancellor pointed out, but the time had come to discriminate in recruiting.

The inference to be drawn from this speech is unmistakable. England believes that since her warships are playing so important a part in the conflict by keeping the seas open to the allies, and since British gold far more than the gold of any other of the allied nations is paying for the war, the allies must not count on England submitting to the slaughter of all her males, as well. England is primarily a naval and financial nation. France and Russia are military powers; therefore let each of the allies do what it can best, and what its past preparation warrants it in undertaking. This is the logic of Mr. Lloyd-George's statement, carefully veiled under the name of "discrimination" in recruiting.

No more momentous announcement concerning the conduct of the war has been made since hostilities began. It seems probable the British government has reached the conclusion that Germany cannot be overwhelmed by a land campaign except at a price which England for her part is not prepared to pay.

ADOPT PACT TO JOIN LUTHERANS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., May 6.—A doctrinal agreement was adopted here today by a joint committee representing the Norwegian Synod of America, the Hauge's Norwegian Lutheran Synod and the United Norwegian Lutheran church. The committee represents more than 1,000 ministers and 3,000 churches located in various parts of the country. Final steps were to be taken late today when the committee meets to draw up a constitution for the amalgamation. The constitution will then be presented to each of the churches for adoption.

The Woman of It.
"Oh, Mildred," cried one young lady, meeting a school friend of some two summers past, "I've heard the greatest piece of news. Can you keep a secret?" "I don't know," said the friend. "I never tried. What is it?"

MOTHER SILENT AT SON'S FUNERAL

MILWAUKEE, Wis., May 6.—Any hopes the police may have had that Mrs. Susie Wodick would be shocked into incriminating admissions when she was confronted with the body of her slain boy were in vain. She had not seen the body since it was found in the rear of her home on Monday night and although she was suffering from the effects of a nervous breakdown, she evinced only the natural grief a mother would feel. Detectives who accompanied her to the funeral watched her closely, believing she would show some sign that she was holding back knowledge of how the boy met his death. They also hoped that if such were the case, the shock of seeing her son's lifeless form would wring a confession from her. But they were forced to admit that they were baffled.

They also want overtime for time worked over 10 hours and Sundays.

Suppose We Pared These Tires

Suppose this All-Weather tread—now double-thick—was pared to the thinness of the usual anti-skid. Would it endure like this one? Or so resist puncture?

Suppose we used—as some do—one less fabric ply. Or made the whole tire lighter. Suppose we omitted our exclusive features:

Our No-Rim-Cut feature—Our "On-Air" cure—Our rubber rivets—Our 126-piano-wire base.

All rivals do omit them. All of them are costly. Our "On-Air" cure alone costs us $450,000 yearly to save needless blowouts. But could Goodyear Fortified Tires retain top place if we did not give those extras?

Cost Added Prices Lowered
Instead of that, we all the time add costly better—ments. We spend on experts $100,000 yearly to seek out new improvements.

Our All-Weather tread—always double-thick—is made still thicker in some sizes.

Our Inner Tubes have been thickened 14 per cent on the average.

Our fabric has been strengthened.

Yet on February 1st we made our third big price reduction in two years, bringing the total to 45 per cent. Now you are getting in Goodyear Fortified Tires the best value ever known in tire making.

It is due to yourself that you this year join this army of contented tire users. It is by far the largest army in Tiredom. Any dealer will supply you. (221)
